ONE OF THE COMING BIG EVENTS IN THIS SECTION OF THE STATE

TYPICAL SCENE AT A REDPATH CHAUTAUQUA

THE forthcoming Chautauqua, which is to be held here will be one of the big events of the season in this section of the state. The above photograph illustrates a typical crowd at one of the Redpath Chautauquas. There are today nearly 1,200 Chautauquas in the United States and Canada. In fact, the Chautauqua has become one of America's great institutions, and the idea has already spread to England and Japan. In 1872 there was not a Chautauqua in the world. In 1873 Bishop John H. Vincent and Lewis Miller inaugurated at the spot now called Chautauqua, N. Y., the original institution. Today Chautauqua, N. Y., is the summer center for 10,000 people, and its land, buildings and equipment represent a cost of millions.

But although thousands of people go annually to Chautauqua, N. Y., from all parts of the United States, the great mass of American people would never get to a Chautauqua if they had to travel far from home. The recognition of this fact brought about the decision to take Chautauquas to the people everywhere. The movement a few years ago began to spread rapidly. Today there are operated from the Redpath headquarters in Iowa, Kansas City and Chicago nearly 600 Chautauquas. Only the best talent is engaged, as high as $15,000 having been paid by the Redpath for a single attraction for the Chautauqua season. Every year the number of Chautauquas grows, and there are more requests annually from towns wishing to be Chautauqua centers than can possibly be granted.

REV. J. S. LYONS OF LOUISVILLE.

Popular Minister Recently the Guest of Marion Elected Moderator of General Assembly

The Rev. J. S. Lyons, D. D., who was elected Moderator of the Southern Presbyterian General Assembly at Atlanta, is one of the best known ministers of Louisville. For twenty-one years he has been pastor of the First Presbyterian Church there. Dr. Lyons is a native of Virginia and was ordained to the ministry about thirty years ago.

He has the distinction of being one of the youngest graduates of the Union Theological Seminary at Hampden-Sydney, Va. and his friends declare he is a young man still, although more than thirty years of useful service have passed since his graduation. Dr. Lyons' first charge was in Lawrenceburg, Ky. He went to Louisville from San Antonio, Texas.

On the occasion of the 110th anniversary of this city Dr. Lyons preached two sermons for us, one in the afternoon and one in the evening and both were declared among the broadest ever heard here, and Dr. Lyons was congratulated by his many admirers here.

While in this city he was entertained by Wm. Barnett and family at their palatial new home on south main.

REMAINS OF ELMER JENNINGS

Laid To Rest In The New Cemetery Friday Afternoon.

George F. Jennings, who went to Chicago Wednesday to accompany the remains of his son, Elmer Baxter Jennings, to his old home for burial, arrived here Friday morning at 11 o'clock with the body, which was taken to Tucker's undertaking establishment to await the digging of the grave and other arrangements for the funeral, which was held at the C. P. church, of which he was a member, at 4 o'clock and interment immediately after at the New Cemetery. Rev. W. T. Oakley officiating.

Elmer B. Jennings was born July 12th, 1887, and was in his 26th year when killed. The accident which caused his death, occurred at Seneca, Ill., on the Rock Island railroad by which he was employed, Tuesday, May 13th, at 3:30 o'clock. It was a rear end collision, he being in the caboose, was killed out right and never spoke. He had been in the railway service over ten years.

Parker, of Evansville; Monday morning at 9 o'clock the last chapel exercise and granting of Promotion Certificates; Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock the Commencement of Marion High School will be held.

The annual address at this exercise will be delivered by Thos. Brooks Fletcher, one of the best known lecturers on the Lyceum platform. His subject will be "The Tragedies of the Unprepared." This lecture has been given at commencements of some of our largest universities. No person who ever hears this lecture can forget it. It is a masterpiece of eloquence and inspiration.

On account of the expense of securing Mr. Fletcher, regular Lyceum prices will be charged for the Commencement.

Those who heard Mr. Fletcher give his lecture, "The Martyrdom of Fools," on the regular Lyceum course this year, will not miss this one. Those who did not hear him should avail themselves of this opportunity.

New Money at the Farmers Bank, will be used exclusively during the Chautauqua week.

This is an innovation and quite a novel one and will attract much attention and no doubt add much business to this institutions volume. The officials have arranged with Uncle Sam to supply them with new money from pennies up to the highest used. So don't forget a souvenir while here, "some money thats never been spent."

HONORABLE ACCIDENT NEAR HERE

Runaway Horse Causes Death of Young Girl Wife of Edward Woodall, of Crayne

Mrs. Iva Lena Woodall, wife of Edward Woodall of the Crayne section was almost instantly killed Saturday afternoon at about 5 o'clock by being dashed from a buggy by a runaway horse. She in company with her husband and baby enroute from their home to Piney Fork, where her father resides with his children, his wife being dead. As they passed a house something scared the horse which sprang to one side and broke one of the shafts and turned in the road and ran down a steep rocky hill heading back towards home. At the foot of the hill, Mr. and Mrs. Woodall were both thrown out, crushing her face and chest and breaking her neck and back. She never spoke. Her husband who was also thrown out at the same time had one leg broken in two places near the thigh, the bone protruding. The infant in its mothers arms escaped almost unhurt and was found in a clump of bushes with only a few scratches and able to make itself heard. Mrs. Woodall was carried to Robt. Hills residence near by where she breathed her last at about 6 o'clock. Her husband was also carried there and Drs. Cook and Frazier summoned to attend to his injuries which as stated are quite severe. Should no complications arise however his physicians say he will soon recover but the knitting of the bones will of course be very slow. He was carried to the home of his father, W. A. Woodall, at 1 o'clock Sunday morning as were the remains of his wife and the funeral was from there to Piney Fork Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The girl wife who lost her life so shockingly sudden was less than 19 years old and was the daughter of Sherman Crayne, the merchant at Star. On Sept. 1 last she was 18 years old. Her funeral was largely attended. Rev. Martin F. Miller officiating.

The family have the profound sympathy of every one.

Presbyterians Unite in Communion Service.

Atlanta, May 16.—For the first time in the history of Presbyterianism four grand divisions, the Northern, Southern, United, and Associate Reformed joined late this afternoon in a union communion service, presided over by the newly elected moderators, of the first three named. More than 3,000 participated.

E. H. JOINER WINS HONOR AT SCHOOL.

Will Re Representative in Annual Debate to be Held At Bowling Green

Mr. E. H. Joiner, of this city is the recipient of an honor of which he is entirely worthy. He has just been elected as one of the six speakers in the annual debate between the two literary societies of Bowling Green Business University, which institution he is attending. This year the question is, "Should We Take Mexico?" and Mr. Joiner and his colleagues champion the negative. This occasion draws visitors from all parts of the state to Bowling Green and excitement runs so high that no building in that city is large enough to accommodate all who wish to hear the debate. The audience is admitted on ticket, and the opera house, with capacity of 1500 is filled to its utmost. For three hours, men, women and children listen, applaud and scream their approbation of their favorites and finally the victorious speakers are carried on the shoulders of their friends.

Of course we are for Mr. Joiner, first, last and all the time, and his many friends in this county will wish for him the victory which we are sure he will not only merit, but win. Mr. Joiner is the son of T. V. Joiner, of this city.—Madisonville Hustler.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION

In Session Last Week At St. Louis. Mo., Interesting Report From Rev. R. A. LaRue.

This great body has again met in its annual session in the great city, St. Louis, a great people, the Baptist, a great country, the southland, a great power, the gospel, a great privilege to attend the convention, the great and the near-great are here. You touch the hem of their garments and are made whole of your littleness, and come away with a pulsing ambition to do something for the king.

Last year associated Baptist of the south baptized 123,471, enrolled in Sunday school 1,329,072 and gave to Missions $1,590,573. They have a church membership of 2,446,296 and church property valued at $58,634,360. They preach the gospel in the south, Cuba, Mexico, Panama, Italy, South America, China, Africa, Japan and the uttermost parts of the world.

Let us in our little corner of the vinyard not forget that we are part of a body with long arms, heavenly vision and gigantic task. Our Missionaries from the various fields bring glad tidings of the great things the Lord is doing for them, yet the appalling needs for men, schools and church houses burdens their hearts to weeping. The call to "Advance" was sounded by the convention. Let there be no retrenchment. Will we do our part in this great work for the glory of Christ? Our townsmen Henderson, Pierce and Hubbard were also in attendance and will doubtless give the readers of the Press further accounts of the convention.

The convention meets next year in Nashville, Tenn.

We have three good milch cows with young calves, for sale. Terms reasonable. T. A. Harpending, Salem, Ky.

GOV. CRUCE AND HIS LEGISLATURE AT SWORD'S POINT

Crittenden County Boy Stands For What He Thinks Is Right.

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 10.—Following a day of acrimonious and impassioned speechmaking over the report of an investigating committee that exonerated Warden Clyde Reed of the state reformatory at Granite for alleged laxity of administration and permitting disease and unsanitary conditions to exist in the prison, Gov. Cruce sent to the legislature a message in which he demanded a fair hearing for Warden Reed, calling attention to the report that only discharged employees of the institution had been heard by the committee. The message seriously reflected on the character of the committee, of which Speaker Maxey is chairman.

Upon the arrival of the message Speaker Maxey, seeing its character, left the chair and went to a corner of the chamber and sat down and read it. The result was that the message was not received until the next day, but meantime it had appeared in the newspapers. Next day a resolution refusing to receive or entertain the message was adopted—67 to 17. The resolution stated that "the committee charged with the duty of investigating the letter of the spirit of the constitution, but is intended for and does make a personal attack upon the legislature as a whole, and especially upon the committees of the house" and that "there is no clerk or directed to receive said communication from the governor, together with a copy of this resolution."

In his message the governor said: "This committee has not succeeded in carrying up its purpose in a way that has deceived me. I know what the committee has in mind. I know that this committee has deliberately set out, after having discussed the matter in secret, to try to discredit the governor and to bring about a state of feeling among the people that will justify the committee in undertaking to institute impeachment proceedings. I know this is so—that members of that committee are disappointed and angry because they have been unable to join upon the people of this state legislation that was iniquitous and outrageous. If I had signed the Muskogee fair bill and the redistributing bill, and thus permitted certain members of that committee to pave their way to a seat in congress, there would have been no such report as the one you listened to yesterday."

The report accused the governor, the attorney-general and the president of the board of agriculture, who compose the board of prison control, with being responsible for a continuation of alleged conditions in the reformatory.

Representative John H. Wright offered a resolution demanding that impeachment proceedings be instituted against all the members of the board, but it was defeated.

Gov. Cruce declared that he has sent his last message recommending legislation of any character.

Representative Ollie Morris defended the governor and impugned wrong motives to members of the committee. He mentioned a man who, on Speaker Maxey's recommendation, had been given a position under the warden of the prison, and had sought to sell state property to two different persons.

This caused an uproar, and Representative Smith, a Kentuckian, warned Morris that the next time this accused ex-employee of the reformatory met Morris there might be an accounting in blood.

While Gov. Cruce is getting hundreds of telegrams and letters daily from all over the state in endorsing the stand against the legislature, the house has arranged for the publication of 1,000 copies of the report for circulation. Appropriations are yet to be made for the maintenance of all state offices and departments and state institutions.

Obituary.

Mrs. Lillian T. Howard (nee Bass,) born Oct. 8, 1886, died March 12, 1913, her age 26 years, five months and four days.

She leaves a husband and two children, a mother, father, half-brother and sister, besides a host of friends and relatives to mourn her death.

She professed faith in Christ and joined the M. E. church, south, in early life, where she remained a faithful member till God called her home to glory. It is hard to part with our loved ones here on earth but our loss is her gain. While she can not come back to us, we can go to her in her eternal home, where there will be no more parting.

—Her Cousin.

Mrs. Hardwork—"I certainly do detest housecleaning time. Here I've been scrubbing and scrubbing until the skin is all off my knuckles, and I just can't get the floors and paint clean."

Anty Drudge—"All the elbow grease in the world won't clean things if you use the wrong soap. Get Fels-Naptha and the grease and dirt on floors and paint-work will disappear like magic."

Fels-Naptha Soap is better than an extra pair of hands in house cleaning.

It makes dirt fly from walls, floors, windows and anything else that's cleanable.

No scrub-brush or hot water is necessary. Just Fels-Naptha, cool or lukewarm water, and a soft cloth.

Fels-Naptha Soap dissolves the dirt in a jiffy so it can be rinsed away; it doesn't have to be scoured off.

Directions for all uses of Fels-Naptha are printed on the red and green wrapper.

ZEBULUM'S STORY

Recalls to Mind of Former Marion
Boy Experiences of His Own
Along Fords Ferry Road

Mr. S. M. Jenkins.
Marion, Ky.
Kind Editor:—

I have read with thought and pleasure the article in your good paper entitled, "Chased By The Sheriff," and written by "Zebulum" himself.

I read it with thought and pleasure, because it reminded me that twenty-nine years ago on the 27th day of February last past, I rode from Marion to Fords Ferry with my marriage license in my pocket, but not chased by the sheriff, no, no.

It was on a stormy, snowy day, and I rode meditative and alone, trying to penetrate the coming years, and determine if possible what they would bring out of the future to me. Fortunately they have all brought peace, happiness, and contentment. My mind often goes back to

"My dear native land
Where in peace and content,
The years of my boyhood
Were carelessly spent.

From its wide spreading plains
To its deep flowing streams,
Ever dear to my heart,
It is seen in my dreams."

But now I am pleasantly situated in southern California, among good neighbors and true friends, "same as you."

Looking to the south we can see the blue outlines of the Catalina Islands more than thirty miles out at sea. While north of us, some forty miles away, rise in plain view the highest peaks of the San Gabriel range of mountains, covered with snow usually from November until the next June. Between these mountains and the sea, reaching for miles and miles away are vast tracts of level, fertile valley lands like the fertile lands in the famous valley of the Nile.

The sea breeze reaches us from 8 to 9 o'clock, a. m., and drifts back again from the mountains to the sea from 5 to 6 p. m., carrying with it the fresh mountain air making the nights cool enough to sleep pleasantly under a comfort or a blanket.

I shall not attempt to describe the many pleasures and advantages of this country, these have been told and written by thousands each year for many years of the past. But I wish to say to those who contemplate ever coming to California to secure homes now is your time. Some great disaster has come to many portions of our country at some period of time. Southern California had hers this winter in the hardest freeze ever known here, so old settlers say. That portion of the orange and lemon crops which had not been marketed before the freeze was almost a total loss, many growers losing their entire crops. Trees in bearing groves generally were not hurt, but many young groves lately set were frozen down to the ground. Many growers have become discouraged, and others who had not paid out on their

Best Medicine For Colds

When a druggist recommends a remedy for colds, throat and lung troubles, you can feel sure that he knows what he is talking about. C. Lower, druggist of Marion, Ohio, writes of Dr. King's New Discovery: "I know Dr. King's New Discovery is the best throat and lung medicine I sell. It cured my wife of a severe bronchial cold after all other remedies failed." It will do the same for you if you are suffering with a cold or any bronchial, throat or lung cough. Keep a bottle on hand all the time for everyone in the family to use. It is a home doctor. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Guaranteed by Jas. H. Orme or Haynes & Taylor.

groves will sell at sacrifice in order to save the money they have paid on them. Land values in general have not depreciated any here, and when another fruit crop is grown and marketed people will not feel that there has been a freeze here, and land values will be higher than ever before.

With a lasting wish for the success of yourself and paper I will say to any of my Kentucky friends or others, who ever visit the city of Los Angeles, go to the Arcades depot on 5th street, buy a ticket for Buena Park, and within one hour after boarding your train you can be sitting in my house where you will be gladly received and your ease and comfort carefully looked after.

"It is a good thing for brethren to dwell together in unity," is a sentence that means much. It is being acted upon here in Marion today by our business men to the fullest extent. Shoulder to shoulder with pocket books wide open these men are enthusiastically planning for a greater and better city.

Marion has the reputation, deservedly so, among her neighboring towns and cities of doing things right. A reputation of keeping the very letter of word. There is no commercial club, no formal business men's association, no boosters organization, neither one is needed in Marion. Every man, woman and child fully believes in the greatest good to the greatest number. The mere fact publicly stated that a civic need should be provided for, does not wait for committee to ponder over and discuss the pros and cons, such men as John Blue, Huston Orme, Tom Cochran, Robert Haynes, Dr. Moore, Clem Nunn, Senator Debee, Sam Gugenheim and this roster of names could be indefinitely extended to include practically every resident of this beautiful city. These men simply go ahead and supply the want. Just now preparations are being made for a "Home Coming Week" and such a week. Every latch string in every Marion home will hang outside the front door for the absent ones to use. The streets will not have the usual sparsely dressed damsels on street platforms, the motly crowd of tinseled dressed people performing stunts on ropes and poles, in other words Marion does not offer the street circus with all of its noise and tawdriness. It does offer however the highest type of proverbial Kentucky hospitality, a charming intellectual feast provided by Redpaths Lveum Bureau in the form of a "Chautauqua" including men and women of national repute who have strong things to say and know how to say them: Dramatic and musical artists of world wide fame; a magnificently complete band of music of fifty seven pieces, and this will be a week of both pleasure and satisfaction, a week that the people of Marion will always be proud of, one week that her visitors will look back upon as a red letter event.

SATISFACTION STORE

"One may obtain self-control in great things only by exercising it in little things. We may all attain self-control if we will, but it must be gained by long continued payment in small progressive expenditures. Nature employs the installment plan. None of us are too poor to begin to pay for what we want, and every small payment is stored up and accumulated as a reserve fund in the hour of need."—Home Messenger.

He who walks through life with an even temper and a gentle patience—patient with himself, with others, patient with difficulties and crosses—he has an every-day greatness beyond that which is won in battles or chanted in cathedrals.—Home Messenger.

It is understood as coming directly from Gov. McCreary that when the proclamation is made by the secretary of the state by authority of the president that the amendment to the constitution of the United States has been ratified by three-fourths of the states as required by the constitution, and therefore the primary election to nominate a United States senator will be held the first Saturday in August, 1914, and the people will elect a United States senator at the November election in 1914, that Gov. McCreary will then immediately announce his candidacy for United State senator. He has been telling his intimate friends for some time that that amendment would become a part of the constitution and the various legislatures had time to ratify it.—W. S. K. in Louisville Times.

The Man Who Holds on.

It is the man who fights and holds on when others let go—who never sees defeat, even when seemingly over come—who is in demand everywhere today.

Patience, grit and determination will carry one to victory in spite of overwhelming obstacles.

It is the men who cannot be shaken off, the men who have a bull dog grip and that tenacity of purpose which sees nothing but its goal, who win.

The greatest men in the world have gone down in defeats, but they came up again, stronger for the struggle.

Take General Grant for one striking instance. He was a dismal failure for half his life.

But he never gave up his high ideals and he never gave up his struggle to obtain them.

Even the strongest hearted may fall, not only once, but again and again. But what of that? Life is a campaign, not a single battle.

At the close of the first day of the battle of Shiloh, a day of severe Union reverses, General Grant was met by his much discouraged chief of staff, McPherson, who said: "Things look bad, General." We have lost half our artillery and a third of our infantry. Our line is broken in many places, and we are pushed back nearly to the river."

Grant made no reply, and McPherson asked impatiently what he intended to do.

"Do? Why, reform the lines and attack at daybreak. Won't they be surprised?"

Surprised they were—and routed before nine o'clock.

Every man who succeeds meets just such crises, and must avert disaster by a prompt reforming of lines and early attack.

—Gleaner.

Mesdames Weldon And Gordon Make A Bow—May They Come Again.

It was indeed and in truth a pleasure and an honor for Elkton to entertain so cultured and delightful a body as the officers and delegates of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Louisville Conference of the M. E. Church, South, in session here last week. No denominational bonds limited the hospitality extended, and it is to be hoped that within the near future the town will have these estimable ladies again as its guests.

No body of women anywhere are doing better or more conscientious work "at home and abroad, on the land on the sea," than are these women of the Louisville Conference, representing a number of the very best homes in a large and influential section of Kentucky. It is a body of women who are not paying so much attention to dogmatic doctrine, theories and isms, as they are toward an earnest effort to get at the great heart and soul of humanity; to help struggling mankind in every nation and every clime, regardless of race or color, and above all, to furnish an everlasting refutation to the base but largely prevalent idea to the effect that woman's only way to help the world is through contaminating herself with the slush and mire of petty partisan politics!

May heaven bless them in their work and in their homes—and grant them long lives whose every day is a benediction to those with whom they come in contact.—Todd Co., Times, Elkton, Ky.

Messages received from his mother supplied the funds to take his remains back to Owensboro and they were prepared and forwarded on the afternoon train. Jailor Wallace attended to all the details, as the boy died in jail.

AMENDMENT

TO THE CONSTITUTION OF KENTUCKY

Working Convicts on Roads.

An amendment to the State Constitution is to be voted on at the November election, which if adopted, will permit the convicts of the State to be worked on the public highways. The amendment limits its provision to able bodied men who are not sentenced for life. We think this amendment ought to be adopted and we are quite confident that it will be. More than a dozen States are working convicts on roads and many of them have been doing so for a number of years. Most satisfactory results are reported and no State that has tried convict labor on public roads has ever repented the law. It is a good way to build good roads as it is the cheapest labor possible. A mile of good metalled road can be built with convict labor for half the cost of regular hired labor or contract prices. We feel very confident that twice as many miles of good road will be built in Kentucky under convict labor as is now being built. In addition it will stimulate many counties to build good roads where there are none. It will also be a good law for the convicts themselves. There will be less idleness among them living in the open air and better opportunities for reformation at the end of their terms. In addition to these arguments there is still another. The present system of leasing the convicts to manufacturing concerns results in bringing in competition on the market convict made articles with articles manufactured by organized labor. The State should not be a party to this kind of competition. In working on the roads they will not take the place of hired labor nor be in competition with it, but it will simply be so much additional road work which the counties will be able to secure. There has never been a good argument advanced against this amendment to the Constitution and it looks like it will be adopted in November by an overwhelming majority. It should carry and let the counties alphabetically be given the chance to secure what ever number of convicts they feel able to work.—Elizabethtown News.

"Old Belzie and I," went on Dog-Owner No. 3, "were, ordinarily, on the best of terms. He was a gentle creature and I often rode him around the place with perfect safety, even without saddle or bridle. On this occasion, however, as I have already pointed out, the mule, owing to my changed facial expression and the wheeziness of my voice, looked upon me as an interloper, as an usurper—as one who had no earthly right to a seat upon his back.

"When we came to the fork of the road, therefore, and I had given the mule's ribs a punch with my heels and at the same time indicating by a movement of the reins that I wanted him to keep on down the Ford's Ferry road instead of taking the road toward home, old Belzie determined to get rid of me, then and there.

"Anyway, the mule certainly did some of the tallest bucking I ever saw pulled off on Crittenden county soil. He reared and plunged and kicked up, sprang around stiff-legged, jumped forward and backward and sideways, plunged and reared some more, finally getting me off the saddle and setting me to the rear, near his tail. This being accomplished, he gave a monstrous kick-up, dislodging me entirely from his back and sending me up among the branches of the trees overhead.

"When I had reached the zenith of my aerial flight and started down again toward this mundane sphere, I grabbed hold of an overhanging limb and held on to it with both hands and thus swung, back and forth, over the roadway.

"Old Belzie, finding himself freed from his encumbrance, looked around as if to see where I was located and, beholding me coming down toward the earth, kicked at me, then galloped off up the lane toward the house, looking back now and then, as if to see what had become of me.

"As the limb to which I clung was not high, I released my hold and came to the ground, landing on my feet. I reached the mule until he reached the gate and then I saw Billy go and lead him to the stable.

"I knew that Fluffy, poor thing, would be very uneasy about me, seeing that—

"A steel comes at evening—
No rider is there—
But the bridle looks grim
With the sign of despair!"

"I was at that time, and am still, a temperance man and member of the Methodist church in good standing, yet I felt sure that Fluffy, knowing my dislike for appearing unsocial, would think it likely that some favorite candidate or other person had set 'em up a little too often and that I had thereby been rendered unable to get home.

"I therefore congratulated myself that such was not the case, and I started at once up the lane toward the house, being more anxious than ever to reach home.

"As soon as I had reached a point in the lane where I had a view of the house, I saw Fluffy standing on the front porch and I knew that she was anxiously watching the road for my coming. Bless her sweet soul, I reflected, I'll soon be with her.

"The moon was shining and as I walked on up the lane I could see Fluffy still standing on the porch, looking out in my direction. Through the misty moonlight, I judged, she could readily discern the outlines of my form, though probably not distinctly enough to assure herself that it was I. So, that I might help her to know just who it was that approached the house, when I reached the top of the little hill in the lane, I waved my hand at her.

"I might as well waved a salute at the gate-post, by George, or at the martin-box that stood on top of a pole in the yard, for she never moved nor gave an answering signal. On the contrary, she stood there like the statue of Venus, gazing past me down the road.

"Of course Fluffy is expecting me, whiskers and all, I reflected, and, consequently, the sweet thing doesn't recognize me through the moonlight. By George, won't she be surprised and pleased when I get home?

"Being anxious to relieve her of all suspense growing out of the unfortunate turn affairs had taken, as soon as I came up near the gate I again waved my hand and also repeated the first stanza of a little poem I had written her before we were married:

"Oh, hear me, dear Fluffy,
Let's haste to depart;
The moon shines so brightly—
Come, blest of my heart!"

"The waving of my hand was all right and entirely up-to-date, as waves go, but the recital was a complete failure, owing to the squeakiness of my voice, occasioned by my sudden cold.

It sounded more like I had, with malice aforethought, squeaked out:

"Lo, here I come puffing.

I've waded the mart;

My shoe shines but slightly—

You blasted upstart!"

"When I had delivered myself of this well-meant recital, Fluffy, instead of recognizing me, either by my voice, my physiognomy or my poetry, looked at me with a defiant stare, then glanced around, as if to see if some weapon of defense was handy."

EDITOR'S NOTE. This stirring adventure, as told by Dog-Owner No. 3, will be continued in this department of the Record-Press next week.

BIG EVENT CHAUTAUQUA WEEK.

CONCERNING the Ben Greet Players, who are to appear here Chautauqua week in the rendition of a Shakespearean play, the Knoxville Journal, Augusta, Me., recently said: "Seventeen hundred people were present at the city hall Monday night at the opening of the Augusta entertainment course and for more than two hours were in ecstasies of delight and laughter over the splendid production by the Ben Greet Players. The company was the genuine Ben Greet Players, and people were present in the audience who had paid $2 and $3 elsewhere to see the same production. The company contains seven of the original players who came with Mr. Greet from England twelve years ago, while the remaining six have been with him for several years in his greatest successes. * * * The management of the Augusta Entertainment Course is certainly to be congratulated upon giving the Augusta public such a splendid entertainment. * * * The acting could not have been better."

MINING NEWS

Decrease in English Fluor Spar Quotations of Lead And Zinc Strong Vein of Ore at The Commodore.

The British home office in its advance sheets for the year 1912 reports the amount of fluor spar mined at 28,691 long tons or 32,134 short tons, a decrease from 1911 of 3,243 short tons. Of this amount 26,176 tons were exported to America leaving but about 6,000 short tons for consumption in Great Britain.

Zinc ores still remain weak and featureless, the price for Spelter at New York closed at $5.40 to $5.45. Lead unchanged and business very quiet closing at New York at $4.30 to $4.35.

The cross-cut being made in the Commodore mine is opening a very large body of lead and zinc ore, the former predominating. So far, and this is written on Monday, drift is entering a remarkable large body of ore, so large that every man at this mine is quietly chanting a hymn of thanksgiving. A strike of so great a body of lead as this seems to be, will naturally produce great excitement both locally and outside of this field. It will certainly mean that Western Kentucky will ultimately become one of the largest producers of lead and zinc ores in the United States and it would be wise for all of us to prepare for just such a happening. To many of us here, the above may sound strongly imaginative, looking at absolute facts we find that at every shaft put down during the past ten years, the ores of lead and zinc have been met with in percentages much higher than the average of other sections of the country, that the bugaboo of fluor spar rendering zinc ore unsaleable to the smelters has closed up many a fine prospect, many a promising body of mineral, and this troublesome ghost was never laid until a young man came here from the outside and took the charge of the Commodore mine. The zinc ore was mined and cleaned and sold to the Smelters and the bank account of the mine was increased forty to fifty thousand dollars in a few months. To go back a little most of us remember the zinc in the Lucile mine, remember that the great body of water in that shaft is so strongly impregnated with zinc as to be dangerous for public use, remember that every mine in our neighboring towns has much zinc, that today it is the very great exception to not find it in quantity. There can be seen at the Columbia, the LaRue, the Ada Florence, the Franklin, the Labb and dozens of others, all showing zinc and lead ores and mind you in really extravagant percentage. Today zinc ore is in what is termed a slump yet it is eagerly purchased at more than seven times the money paid for fluor spar. The day is rapidly nearing us when spar will be the by-product and lead and zinc ores will assume their legitimate position. When that day arrives, as arrive it will, there will arise a city right here in Marion that will be unlike the present clean, handsome and progressive one. Marion will be a great hustling, wonderful city with twenty times its present population and a thousand times its present working capital and the little specks of lead and zinc ores will bring this about as surely as the warm sun and the gentle showers produce the charming foliage of the trees and the delightful carpet of green on our lawns and meadows. It is quite time to look ahead.

June Bride.

Mrs. Nora Yates has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Allie May, to Mr. Arthur Watkins, which will be one of the most important social events of the season and will be solemnized at the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., on Main street in this city on Wednesday, June 4th. The bride-to-be is a social favorite in this city and belongs to one of the wealthiest families in the county.

The groom is a son of Harry Watkins, the mining capitalist, of Birmingham, Ala., and is generally popular where he is known. The family resided here until a few years ago and there was universal regret when they decided to leave Marion. Mr. Watkins now is coming to claim one of our finest girls for his life partner and he is being congratulated on his good fortune and choice selection.

In Memory.

Miss Una E. Clement, daughter of R. B. (Fred) Clement, of this county, was born Dec. 18th, 1892, professed faith in Christ in early childhood and united with the Cumberland Presbyterians at Crayne, also this county, of which church was a member at the time of her death, May 14th, 1913.

She was a highly respected christian young lady, as was evidenced by the vast throng of people who gathered at the family residence Thursday evening to accompany the remains to the family cemetery, where interment took place.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. W. T. Oakley, from the home Thursday evening in the presence of perhaps the largest and most sympathetic audience that ever witnessed a funeral from a residence in this county. The floral offering was also perhaps the largest, there being not sufficient room upon the casket to retain one-half the number of beautiful flowers that were brought and sent by friends and relatives, all of which only spoke in silent words of the high esteem in which she was held.

We are unable to explain why the dark angel of death should enter this home and just as Una reached her majority, call for her. However, it was the writer's privilege to talk face to face with her a few hours before the end came, and hear her say that she was ready when the call came, and was going home to Heaven to be with mother, Jesus and the angels. These are precious thoughts and were it not for these it would indeed be much harder to bear.

May the richest and choicest blessings of a Divine father rest in that home, and upon the bereaved father, brothers, sisters and all the relatives and friends, is the sincere prayer of the writer, and when the end shall come to us, may we likewise be ready to go to sleep as the sun sets in this world to awake at it's rising yonder, and be greeted by the blood-washed throng that await our coming.

Her pastor,
W. T. OAKLEY.

M. E. Church Social.

The Woman's Missionary society of the M. E. church, south, had a social meeting at the church Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. C. E. Weldon and Mrs. W. P. Gordon had been sent as delegates to the meeting of the Louisville conference at Elkton, Ky. They were full of the spirit and enthusiasm of the meeting, and their papers were very interesting and much enjoyed by all.

A large table was decorated in the basement of the church, and each member took part in furnishing the refreshments, which consisted of sandwiches, strawberries, bananas, cakes, deviled eggs, pickles, olives, cheese, doughnuts, candy, mints, pineapple, etc. Tooth picks were passed decorated as flags, on which were written passages of scripture.

Chi-Namel Demonstration

AT THE CHI-NAMEL STORE

ON

MAY 23rd and 24th.

We have the sales agency for the line of all-purpose varnish, which is so far ahead of any varnish that has ever been sold in this community, that we particularly desire an early opportunity to show its good points to some member of every household in our business district.

What we want you to know about this wonderful varnish is something that cannot be told; but we can show you in a very few minutes that you get more for your money every time by using Chi-Namel Varnish for floors, woodwork, furniture, or anything about the house on which varnish is used.

This varnish is furnished in the natural color and also in a full variety of colors. It can be hammered and boiled without showing any signs of abuse. Any amateur can apply it to large surfaces and get just as smooth a finish as a professional finisher—no laps, no brush marks, no blotches to make a patchy appearance.

You will thank us for this invitation after you have come to know all about it.

Other features we want to show you are the Chi-Namel Ready-to-Use Graining Process, by which you can cover all blemishes in your old floors and make them any color you wish, and also produce the grain of oak or other woods.

Old carpets can be made into rugs and a new hardwood border will take the place of the ugly flooring at a cost of but 2c per square foot.

We will gladly explain all these features at our store if you give us the opportunity.
